

Congressman Blumenauer held a town hall with residents of Terwilliger Plaza this past weekend. Opening the conversation, he discussed the opportunities for progress that can be created through legislation such as Water for the World, the Farm Bill, and continuing funding for Public Broadcasting. "These are all ideas and pieces of legislation that have had broad bipartisan support in the past," Blumenauer said. "I think we need to look at these concepts that both parties can come together and agree that these are good ideas that help many, many people."

Residents then posed a variety of questions on issues that included environmental conservation in the Columbia River Gorge and reforming the tax code.
